Every bundle includes a “Make it an ability” box showing how to turn that condition into a power used by a human and by an animal. Chapter 6 explains the method in detail.

A note on tone: supernatural and action prompts are atmospheric and non-graphic. They build dread and spectacle through light, shadow and suggestion rather than injury.

1. Anatomy of a Condition Prompt

A condition prompt describes an environment that is doing something. Follow this order:

Block	What it controls	Example
1. Camera	Shot, movement, lens, frame rate	Extreme wide time-lapse ...
2. Condition	The phenomenon and its intensity	a rotating supercell storm ...
3. Behavior	What the condition is doing	lowering a wall cloud and flashing with lightning ...
4. Anchor	A human, animal or object for scale and story	over a lone farmhouse ...
5. Look	Light, color and realism level	dramatic natural light, photoreal.

Extreme wide time-lapse: a rotating supercell storm lowering a wall cloud and flashing with lightning over a lone farmhouse, dramatic natural light, photoreal.

Three rules

- Show it through what it touches. Wind is invisible; show bending grass. Cold is invisible; show breath and frost.
- Always add an anchor. A tiny figure, a house or an animal gives scale and emotion to vast conditions.
- Name the phenomenon precisely. “Sun dogs,” “noctilucent clouds” and “a haboob” give models far more to work with than “weird sky.”

2. Writing Weather

Weather	Describe	Useful words
Rain	intensity, drop size, light source, surfaces	drizzle, downpour, sheets, curtains, crown splash, puddle rings
Storms	cloud structure, lightning type, timing	supercell, shelf cloud, forked, spider lightning, sprite
Snow & ice	flake size, wind, glitter, cracks	fat flakes, powder, whiteout, hoarfrost, black ice, icicles
Fog & haze	density, how light scatters	inversion, sea fog, steam fog, god rays, glow halos
Wind	what moves and how far it bends	gust, gale, catspaws, plumes, streamers, snapping flags
Heat & dust	shimmer, cracks, bleached color	mirage, heat haze, haboob, dust devil, sun-bleached
Optical	the exact phenomenon	double rainbow, sun dogs, halo, glory, moonbow, green flash

Tip: weather is motion. Time-lapse suits clouds and fog, slow motion suits rain, hail and splashes, and locked-off frames let a storm do the moving.

3. Writing Space & Astral Conditions

- Space is silent and hard-lit. One light source (a star), pitch-black shadows, no atmospheric haze outside a planet.
- Microgravity: everything drifts and keeps moving: hair halos, floating water spheres, tumbling tools.
- Scale: add a tiny ship, astronaut or moon to make planets, nebulae and black holes feel vast.
- Alien weather: state the strange physics plainly: “sideways glass rain,” “diamond hail,” “twin suns.”
- Astral & celestial: name the event (total eclipse, Perseids, aurora corona) and add a human watcher on the ground.
- Astral travel: show a translucent glowing body, a silver cord back to the sleeper, and the destination.

Condition	Key visual cues
Black hole	accretion disk, light bending above and below, photon ring, stretched stars
Nebula	glowing gas pillars, named colors (teal, rose, violet), dark dust lanes
Solar activity	flares, looping prominences, coronal mass ejections, granulated surface
Re-entry	plasma sheath, glowing heat shield, contrail, sonic boom
Aurora	curtains, corona overhead, green with pink edges, rippling motion

4. Writing Supernatural Conditions

- Suggest, don’t show everything. Half-seen figures, translucency and a single light source are scarier than full reveals.
- Give the supernatural a light signature: cold blue for ghosts, green for curses, gold for divine, red for infernal, silver for moonlit.
- Make the world react: candles flicker, frost spreads, doors slam, objects float, color drains.
- Name the tradition: kitsune, banshee, kelpie or Day of the Dead give culturally specific detail.
- Keep it non-graphic: dread lives in atmosphere, silence and timing.

5. Writing Sci-Fi, Fantasy & Comic Book Action

- Power = source + effect + environment. “Blue energy from both palms, cracking the asphalt, lifting dust.”
- Give each power a color so team shots stay readable.
- Comic style: ask for bold ink, halftone dots, speed lines and dynamic angles, and avoid text and speech bubbles.
- Scale for kaiju and dragons: include buildings, ships or crowds in frame.
- Transformations need start, middle and end: “skin rippling, then chrome, then fully metallic.”

6. Turning Conditions Into Abilities

Any condition in this manual can become a power. Use the five-step ability formula:

Step	Question	Example (lightning)
1. Source	Where in the body does it come from?	from her raised right palm
2. Gesture	What movement triggers it?	a sharp upward sweep of the arm
3. Effect	What does the condition do?	lightning forks down into her hand and arcs between her fingers
4. Interaction	How does the world react?	rain freezes mid-air, her hair lifts with static, the crowd lit blue
5. Cost / limit	What shows strain or control?	her veins glowing faintly, her breath steaming

Low-angle slow-motion shot: a woman on a rain-soaked rooftop sweeping her right palm upward as lightning forks down into her hand and arcs between her fingers, rain freezing mid-air around her and her hair lifting with static, her veins glowing faintly blue, dramatic storm light.

Adapting for animals

- Match the power to the animal's nature. Herons and rain, eagles and wind, wolves and frost, owls and night, whales and sea storms.
- Let the power flow from natural movement: a wingbeat creates a gust, a howl calls the aurora, a hoofbeat triggers lightning.
- Keep real anatomy. Name the species and describe the body accurately. The power is added, not swapped in.
- Use elemental materials for fantasy creatures: fur of flame, scales of ice, antlers of nebula gas, a tail of aurora.
- Add a human partner for story and scale: a rider, a witch with a familiar, a child with a super-pet.

Condition	Human version	Animal version
Snow	a girl twirling as flakes stop and spiral around her	an arctic fox pouncing as flakes freeze into a shield
Moonlight	a woman bathing in moonlight that pools in her palms	a wolf whose fur gathers the moon's glow
Black hole	a scientist holding a tiny black hole between her palms	a raven circling a black hole, feathers stretching into light
Ghosts	a medium whose lantern draws spirits like moths	a cat watching a figure appear in an empty chair
Speed	a speedster moving raindrops aside in frozen time	a cheetah leaving glowing afterimages

7. Templates & Troubleshooting

WEATHER: [camera]: [phenomenon + intensity] [doing what] [to/over anchor], [light], [realism].

SPACE: [camera]: [cosmic condition] [behavior], [tiny ship/astronaut for scale], hard starlight, deep black space.

ASTRAL: [camera]: [celestial event] over [place], [watchers], [colors], [long-exposure feel].

SUPERNATURAL: [camera]: [entity/condition] [half-seen action] in [place], [light signature], [world reacting].

POWER: [camera]: [hero] [gesture] as [condition] [effect], [environment reacting], [cost/glow], [style].

ANIMAL POWER: [camera]: a [species] [natural movement] as [condition] [effect], [habitat], [style].

Troubleshooting

Problem	Fix
Weather looks flat	Add motion and interaction: what it bends, soaks, freezes or lights.
Space looks foggy or soft	Specify hard single-source light, black shadows and no atmosphere.
Power effect looks pasted on	Add environmental reaction: light on faces, wind in hair, debris lifting.
Animal looks wrong with powers	Name the species and keep the power to one element and one movement.
Ghost is too solid	Ask for translucency, faint glow and a cold single light source.
Scene has no scale	Add a tiny human, house, ship or animal for reference.
